4.3.2 Institution has an IT policy, makes appropriate budgetary provision and updates its IT facilities including Wi-Fi facility Response:

1. Internet connectivity: Including the bandwidth that is provided by NKN, the total bandwidth that is accessible is 1000 Mbps. The campus now has a firewall (Sophos) to further beef up its already impressive level of safety.

2. KU Website: The website, hosted at www.kuvempu.ac.in, is a dynamic resource that is regularly updated as necessary. The UCCF and IT Cell is the central repository for all University circulars, notifications, and meeting minutes, which are updated and uploaded by the relevant sections and departments. The university's website serves as a communication hub, relaying important academic and administrative updates to a wide range of audiences, including students, parents, teachers, officers, connected institutions, vendors, and community members. Students can save time by filling out several application forms online instead of travelling to the University's main campus. Web apps are either tailored in-house or specially designed.

3. Network and Wi-Fi facility: In order to improve performance and ensure that the new network extends to every part of the campus, the existing multimode optical fibre network has been completely replaced with a single mode fibre network. There is about 9.7 kilometres of fibre cable that links the campus together. There are almost 800 wired network nodes on campus, and an equal number of wireless nodes. At least seventy-three access points to the internet are located in campus. All classrooms and labs across the campus have Internet access. To properly expand the wired network as needed, a standard operating method has been established. The campus now features designated Wi-Fi Service thanks to the university. Each classroom, office, dorm, and cafeteria as well as the main building's guest house has its own Wi-Fi Service. Wi-Fi is available for no cost to students, teachers, and staff. Visitors and guests of the University are welcome to use the BSNL Wi-Fi service. Students may access the Internet in the Library's Internet area, with students being the primary users.

4. UCCF and IT Cell: The University's UCCF and IT cell is state-of-the-art. This building houses the majority of the campus's computers. The UCCF and IT cell is home to all of the campus's application and data servers. Moreover, fibre optic cables connect every structure in the campus to the central UCCF and IT cell.

5. IT facility for Administration: The majority of administrative work is now handled electronically (e-Office and UUCMS, Govt. of Karnataka). Some web-based administration systems for things like admission, exams, etc., exist. Online payment gateway is available for your convenience. CCTV and IP-based systems monitor key areas of the campus. The University's NIC e-Mail service used in the campus.

Technical teams

1. Wi-Fi, Network, and Internet Support Team: Responsible for providing assistance to users of the network, installing new networks, upgrading existing networks, and ensuring that networks can be scaled. Additionally, a Wi-Fi facility is available on demand.
2. The Hardware and Software support team is responsible for performing repairs and preventative maintenance on IT hardware systems as well as surveillance systems.
3. Software team: Support for e-mail users within the university domain, as well as the development and maintenance of a software application.

4.3.4 Available bandwidth of internet connection in the Institution (Leased line)

Response: A. 1 GBPS
